

Privacy policy

Chris Pearsall Photography respects the privacy of website users.

Chris Pearsall Photography is based in the UK and uses and retains information for business and professional purposes in line with UK data protection regulations. Chris Pearsall Photography may use Google Analytics. Google Analytics generates statistical and other information by using cookies on users' computers. This information is helps create usage reports. Google stores this information. Google's privacy policy is available here (<https://www.google.com/policies/privacy/>). We also use Facebook, LinkedIn and Twitter for social media purposes. Their individual privacy policies are available on their websites.

Personal information

Chris Pearsall Photography will only collect name, email address and where appropriate work/mobile phone number of the Data Subject (client) in order to facilitate Processing in relation to that Data Subjects (clients) photographic commission. On no occasion is any health, financial or other personal information asked for or collected. By commissioning Chris Pearsall Photography you agree to the use of the photographs (not your personal data) on Chris Pearsall Photography's social media platforms and any promotional material generated for the promotion of Chris Pearsall Photography.

Chris Pearsall Photography will only use personal information to:

- 1) Provide specifically requested information (i.e. answer your e-mails or contact you when necessary),
- 2) Send you communications we think may interest you, and
- 3) Carry out our legitimate business that may include providing communications services for others, consultancy and advisory services, education, training and preparing information with a view to publication.

Please inform us if you do not wish to receive any of our communications.

Consent

Consent is sought wherever and whenever possible and required. However, some information may be held for journalistic purposes (this will be clarified when the Data Protection Bill completes its passage through Parliament, which will establish the exemption covering journalism, literature and art) where consent is not required,

Disclosures

Chris Pearsall Photography will only disclose personal information where we are required to do so by law.

Information security

Chris Pearsall Photography takes reasonable technical and organisational precautions to prevent the loss, misuse or alteration of personal data. All information provided is stored on secure (password and firewall-protected) servers and devices. Chris Pearsall Photography cannot guarantee the security of data sent over the internet.

Data protection policy amendments

Chris Pearsall Photography may update this policy from time to time by posting revisions here. Please check here occasionally for any changes.

User rights

Users may request copies of personal information held by Chris Pearsall Photography, subject to providing appropriate evidence of identity – such as a copy of the photo pages of a passport certified by a solicitor or bank plus a copy of a utility bill showing your current address.

Chris Pearsall Photography may withhold information within legal limits.

By e-mailing Chris Pearsall Photography, you authorise Chris Pearsall Photography to retain such personal information within the scope of current legislation.

Other websites

Chris Pearsall Photography accepts no responsibility for the content, privacy policies or practices of other websites.

Updating information

Please inform Chris Pearsall Photography if personal information needs correcting or updating.

Questions

Queries about this policy and data retention should be sent by email to info@cpphoto.com

The data controller is Chris Pearsall